2. A description of the applicant's systems for managing impacts of the proposed work on the community (including landowners and occupiers) and the environment.

Environment Strategy

Core Prospecting Pty Ltd has established systems to manage environmental and community impacts through completing rehabilitation as soon as practicable following exploration activities, conducted in accordance with Victorian Government Guidelines for environmental management in exploration and mining. The company ensures all personnel and contractors receive site-specific environmental training covering weed management, protection of threatened species, and engagement with landowners and occupiers potentially affected by operations. Core Prospecting Pty Ltd operates under a framework that prioritizes impact avoidance where feasible and minimization where unavoidable, maintaining compliance with all relevant guidelines while implementing systematic rehabilitation practices to restore disturbed land and minimize disruption to the local community and environment.

3. An outline of how the applicant intends to meet the licensee's obligations under section 39A of the MRSDA to consult with the community (including landowners and occupiers).

The Community Engagement Plan

Core Prospecting Pty Ltd will identify all stakeholders potentially affected by exploration activities, including neighbouring landowners, local residents, relevant community organizations, government departments at all levels, and catchment management authorities. Through direct consultation, preferably face-to-face, the company will assess community expectations and concerns regarding proposed operations, evaluating impacts against departmental guidelines to determine appropriate levels of community involvement. Consultation will address practical operational matters including work schedules, fire danger protocols, and weather-related work practices, seeking mutually beneficial outcomes for both the company and local community.

All community contacts and complaints will be documented in a dedicated register with prompt follow-up and resolution attempted directly between parties, escalating to the local Inspector or Mining Warden for mediation when necessary. This ongoing engagement will identify emerging issues and incorporate stakeholder input into operational decisions, ensuring minimal disruption to local amenity and quality of life. Core Prospecting Pty Ltd is committed to maintaining transparent communication channels and conducting all interactions with mutual trust and respect.
